

Paleontologists use bones to figure out what a creature looked like. You be the Paleontologist by drawing flesh over the bones, then coloring a habitat to bring this 37-million year old Desmatosuchus fossil, from the late Traissic period, back to life. (An ancient crocodile relative.)

